

An Analysis of the Factors Affecting Employee Relations in the Flower Industry in Kenya

By Emily Odhong

GRIN Verlag. Taschenbuch. Book Condition: Neu. 210x148x1 mm. This item is printed on demand - Print on Demand
 Neuware - Wissenschaftlicher Aufsatz aus dem Jahr 2014 im Fachbereich BWL - Unternehmensführung, Management, Organisation, , Sprache: Deutsch, Abstract: Despite impressive performance and contribution to national economy, the flower industry in Kenya is still faced with decent work deficits. These could be manifested in the terms and conditions of employment leading to industrial unrest in organizations within the flower industry. Trade Union membership has been shown to be low, with membership in the main union at just 17% of the total number of workers in flower farms. The effect of weak employee and industrial relations system and practice is manifested in the increase in the spate of industrial strikes and attendant man-days lost. The number of man-days lost due to industrial strikes almost doubled from 14,806 man-days in 2008 to 25,504 man-days in 2010. This, however, increased tremendously by about sevenfold to 175,329 in 2011. Other effects are seen in declining labour productivity in all sectors of the country's economy, increasing unit labour cost and low levels of competitiveness. Kenya's labour productivity growth has, for example, declined from 4 per cent in...

READ ONLINE
 [7.21 MB]

Reviews

Great eBook and useful one. We have go through and i also am certain that i am going to likely to read through yet again once more in the foreseeable future. Your lifestyle period will likely be transform once you comprehensive looking over this book.

-- Carter Haag

This publication will not be easy to get going on reading but really exciting to read through. it was writtern really perfectly and beneficial. I found out this pdf from my i and dad suggested this publication to find out.

-- Garrett Adams