L. - Charles smoking in doorway, R. Enter, Polly, C. E. Polly, (coming down) Jessie, I met a soldier on my way from school, such a fine manly fellow, and such a pretty uniform. Oh! you should have seen him: he reminded me of dear old Jack. I wonder if we shall ever see him again? Jessie. He is expected here this evening. Polly. This is glorious news; why didn't you tell me before? One would think that you are sorry that he is coming. Jessie. I am neither sorry nor pleased, his coming does not interest me. Polly. Jessie, how strangely you speak, you ought to be proud to meet an old friend. I am sure he will be glad to see you. Jessie. I am not so sure of that, you seem to forget - Polly. There,...

Reviews

This is basically the very best book we have gone through until now. I have read and I am confident that I am going to study once again in the future. I am just very happy to inform you that this is basically the very best ebook we have read in my own life and might be the very best publication for at any time.
